Natural Resource Tour

Senior Planner Nesbitt and Assistant Planner Fitzgerald organized a natural resource tour to familiarize the Commission with type, quality and functions of the City's natural resources. Sites visited provided examples of high quality resources, degraded resources in need of improvement, and areas where mapping changes may be needed. Criteria for determining quality and value of a natural resource were illustrated at different sites.

At the end of the tour the Commission agreed the visual representation of natural resource quality and evaluation criteria was going to be a valuable resource in evaluating and determining regulatory management strategies for the City's natural resources.
